The Holy Spirit: The Realness of God

The Holy Spirit is God with us and God in us. He is not a feeling, a force, or an emotion, but God Himself working personally in our lives.

Jesus promised that after He left, God would send the Holy Spirit to guide us, teach us, convict our hearts, and comfort us.

The Holy Spirit is how God makes Himself real and personal, helping us understand truth, follow Jesus, and live out our faith every day.

That is why I love to refer to Him as the Realness of God.

The Realness of God continues to draw me closer to Jesus, shaping me day by day, not through perfection, but through surrender.

His presence reminds me that God is not distant. He is real, active, and personally involved in our lives right now.

God is not distant.
Through His Spirit, He is with us and He lives in us.
